

FAST WORK AT GRAVESEND TRACK

Strings Arrive Hourly from Saratoga and Great Preparations Are Being Made for Coming Meet.

(Special to The Evening World.)
GRAVESEND, L. I., Aug. 25.—The beautiful weather of this morning favored the visitors who have their abode quartered at the Gravesend Race Track. The skies were bright and clear, the temperature was perfect and the track lightning fast. All the stalls in the barn in the Thomas and Rhinecliff strings have been bedded down, awaiting the arrival of fifteen head from Saratoga tomorrow. Business of all kinds arrived this morning, all shipping in good shape.

Many Horses Arrive.
Trainer Tom Walsh has ordered his foreman to have the harness in readiness for his string, which will arrive from the Spa on Thursday. Early in the morning Henry Harris was out with the two-year-olds, St. Roma and Pompano of the McDonald string, and Spanish Lassie, one of his own set. St. Roma was sent along three-quarters of a mile breeding in 1:20. Pompano galloped the same distance in 1:21. Spanish Lassie breezed the six furlongs' route in 1:22.

The Boston stables' Illuminator and Royal Pirate were sent for a suit of gallop of two miles. Illuminator was brought along the last three furlongs in 1:10. Royal Pirate worked the quarter through the home stretch in 0:27. Both of them were fighting for more rein all the way.

Work of Day Pair.
Eld Daly's pair, Trump and Varsity, were worked together five-eighths of a mile, stepping the distance in 1:05. Trump beating Varsity three-lengths. About the nearest move of the morning was accomplished when Trainer Jolly sent the Murphy racer, Dean Swift, one and one-eighth miles, pulling up in 2:01.

The mile was turned in 1:47-1/2 and the horse was held all through the last eighth. Sagredo in the same lot, rushed off the half mile distance in 0:52 quite handsly.

Doc Howell was also one of the early workers, sending his big chestnut sprinter, Yellow Tail, who cut a considerable figure in the spring miles to a useful six furlongs, covering the distance in 1:30. From a time standpoint it is not much, but the manner in which it was done made it an impressive move.

I'LL FIGHT ANY MAN, BAR JEFF, SAYS FITZ

"I'll fight any man in the world, barring Jeffries."

That was Bob Fitzsimmons' first remark when he stepped off the Twentieth Century Limited at the Grand Central station to-day.

Fitzsimmons doesn't look like the "Blinky Bob" New Yorkers know. He's a real heavy-weight now and says any scales will register him at 177 pounds. He looks it. But say he can still make the middle-weight limit.

Accompanying him were his wife and a bag. When he began talking his pretty half looked amazed. She appeared as though she never heard him talk like that before. But there was an expression of approval in her face when he talked about being willing to fight any man in the world.

Fitz was dressed in sombre black suit, wore a black tie and a mourning band around his hat. He looked anything but a man on his honeymoon.

All Look Alike to Him.

"All those fellows, middle-weights, light heavy-weights and heavy-weights look alike to me. I'm in the fighting game, and any man who thinks he has a chance with me now can come along. I will accept the first challenge I get. As for fighting for a side bet, that is out of the question. You can't bet in this country, can you? Well, what's the use of talking about such a thing?"

"I don't ever fail to make good my word? So what's the use of a forfeit? I'm here to talk fight with any one. Jim Corbett can have the first one, if he wants it. He said in the ring after Jeffries gave him all he wanted that he would fight me. Now it's up to him. 'Before I left him in Chicago I heard he said that he was through with the fighting business."

Has Many Grievances.

Now as to Fitz's grievances. He says he was always misrepresented regarding his plans and his assertions. He was particularly upset over the statement made after the Jeffries and Corbett fight that he tried to make a speech in the ring and was not allowed to. He says he never had any such idea, and didn't ask for the opportunity, because the affair in the ring was Jeffries and Corbett's, and not his.

He said that he thought he and Corbett were friendly, and that they were until he made the prediction that Jeffries would win in the sixth round.

"Now I am going down to my home in Beneshurst and wait until somebody says they'll fight me. They can always find me there at the same old place."

Saying which Fitz helped his wife into a two-seated carriage, got in himself and started the long drive to his home.

Lou Dillon, C. K. G. Billings' trotter, is the talk of the country to-day. He made over the Randville track in two minutes, flat is cause enough for all the talk. Up to last week it was thought that the horse wasn't living, which could not a mile faster than 2:02 1/2, the work of Cresceus. And even such a well informed horseman as the late Robert Bonner said such a feat was well nigh impossible. But Lou Dillon has upset his theory and changed the belief of thousands that the great Cresceus' record would live for decades. And everybody is glad.

To-day congratulations are being heaped on the good judgment of C. K. G. Billings for buying the little mare for $2,500 at an auction sale last winter, and Driver Millard Sanders's hand is sore from the handshakes given him and his arm is tired opening congratulatory telegrams. But he is happy, probably the happiest man in the world.

"I would sooner be the first driver of the two-minute horse than be President of the United States," that is what he answers when given a word of praise for his great drive.

While joyful, Sanders is not as enthusiastic as many others whose only interest lies in seeing the two-minute horse.

Can Go Still Faster.

"That little mare can do better than
